

An Angel's wings let fly a Being
Like Man it seems
In its wandering high, wondering why,
Widening eye, and whispering sigh.

Wings and gown flow silken and velvet
As swirls of clouds, rolls of hills,
Flutters of petals, and currents of waves
Over the Earth do pass.

Man too an Angel, wings yet to find.

Catinka Knoth
December 2011